

Wondertime

Instant Journal

This is so deliciously easy. Just go get a pen. Then use these questions as prompts. We guarantee the answers, years from now, will spark some serious heart tugs and oh-I’d-forgotten-thats. A new Instant Journal page will appear in each issue of Wondertime. Bound together, they’ll create a memory book.

What made your child laugh today?

What’s the current goodnight ritual for you and your child?

Make a list of
your child’s favorite:

friends

books

phrases

Using water-soluble temperas, paint your child's hand (or foot if he is an infant) and have him stamp it here.

Wondertime

Instant Journal

Okay, maybe not instant, but this is as close as it gets. Fill out this page every issue—no hot glue guns needed—and you’ll be creating that memory book you’ve always meant to start.

What catches your child’s attention during a walk with you?

What is your child’s favorite outfit right now?

Make a list of
your child’s favorite:

ice cream flavors

outdoor hiding places

ways to cool off

Make It Now

Have your child draw a self-portrait. For a younger child, sketch the picture yourself—asking her for input (e.g., what color should I make your hair? your eyes?).
