Crayola Supplies

- Scissors
- Washable Kid's Paint
- Paint Brushes
- Twistables®

Other Supplies

- recycled newspaper
- paper towels
- string
- construction paper
- water containers
- raffia (optional)

Why?

Kids go on safari when they follow their animal instincts with art adventures. Put these booklets on your survival list.

How?

1. Cut a long, narrow piece of construction paper with Crayola® Scissors. Fold the paper accordion style into a booklet.
2. With Crayola® Twistables™ Crayons, sketch jungle safari images on the front cover. You might choose animals, tree branches, and plants in the rain forest.
3. Cover your work area with newspaper. Brush a thin coat of green Crayola® Washable Kid's Paint over the cover to represent the jungle's green foliage. Watch the waxy crayon colors pop out of the jungle! Dry.
4. Tie string or raffia to close your Safari Sketches book.
5. Fill the inside of your book with drawings of animals that you see at the zoo or game preserve, in videos, books, or on the Internet. With an adult, take a walk outside and draw what you see in your backyard or city park.

When and Where Suggestions?

- "The kids made Safari Sketches before a trip to the zoo. During the bus ride, they drew wonderful pictures." Kayce H., summer playground leader.
- "Parents made their own Safari Sketch books at our Tropical Rainforest night. They really got into drawing wild animals!" Arnold Z., scout leader.

Interesting Information

The first cage-less zoo in the United States was Lion Country Safari in Loxahatchee, Florida. The drive-through animal preserve, which opened in 1967, keeps people captive in their cars while animals run free.

Safety Guidelines

Safety guidelines recommend this art project is suitable for children age 4 years and older. Close adult supervision is required to ensure children's safety.

ATTENTION: The cutting edges of scissors are sharp and care should be taken whenever cutting or handling. Adult supervision is recommended with all children.
