

YARD HULA BOWL

Here's a bowling game where you're trying to NOT knock down the pins. Grab some hula hoops and set them up in the yard so they're standing up straight like pins and all in a row. Dig the hoop into the ground a bit to help them stand up if you need to. Then try to crawl through them without knocking any over. Whoever can knock down the least wins.

YARD FROLF

Frolf is golf – with a Frisbee?. Set up your own course in your yard and pick a target as the hole. Make sure it's a pretty good distance away to throw. Start at the beginning and try to reach the target.

POOL FOOTBASE

Place four bases in the pool to form a baseball diamond. From home plate, throw a football to anywhere in the pool. If it's caught, you're out. If not, run (or swim) the bases like regular baseball. If you hit a homerun, a touchdown dance must be performed.

YARD BASEBALL BOWLING

Set up a short baseball field in your yard and use pins as the bases (the pins can range from cans to dolls). Have a friend pitch you a ball and try to hit one of the bases. If you hit first base, it's a single, second base is a double, and third base is a triple. If you miss one, that's an out. There are three outs per inning and four innings in a game.
